We respect your right of access to information. This document will help you exercise that right as required by section 14 of the Promotion to Access of Information Act 2 of 2000 (PAIA).

Callouts like this are a summary of our manual and contain the most important and relevant points for you. They are here to help you understand it, but please read the full manual.

1. Introduction

We are the Western Cape Nature Conservation Board trading as CapeNature, we effectively manage the Western Cape Nature Conservation Board Act and relevant sections in the Western Cape Biodiversity Act, and this is our 'Access to Information Manual'. Its purpose is to help you access our information and any other information that we have. PAIA requires us to make it available to you so that you:

- know what types of information we have; and
- can request access to it.

This manual exists to tell you what information we have and help you get access to it.

In 1996, the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa 1996 came into force. section 32 enshrines the right of access to information held by both public and private bodies (subject to justifiable limitations).

The Constitutional Court interpreted the right of access to information as not merely a right to obtain access to information for the exercise or protection for a right, but also to ensure that there is open and accountable administration in all spheres of government.

section 32 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (the Constitution) reads as follows:

“(1) Everyone has the right of access to –

(a) any information held by the state; and

(b) any information that is held by another person and that is required for the exercise or protection of any rights.

(2) National legislation must be enacted to give effect to this right, and may now provide for reasonable measures to alleviate the administrative and financial burden on the state.”

In 2000, the Promotion of Access to Information Act (PAIA) came into law, fulfilling the aforesaid provision to foster a culture of transparency and accountability in public and private bodies and to empower and educate the people of South Africa to understand their rights. is aimed at encouraging an open democracy where individuals from all walks of life are empowered to engage with government and participate in decisions which affect their lives.

In terms of section 14 of PAIA, a public body must have a manual which sets out amongst others the functions of, and an index of records held by a public body. This manual gives effect to the provision of section 14 of PAIA and provides assistance on the procedure that must be followed to requests access to a record that is being held by CapeNature.
